

Project summary

Dubbo Base Hospital

New South Wales

Dubbo Hospital is a major regional referral hospital providing essential health services to thousands of people living in Dubbo and western NSW including the communities of Walgett, Bourke and Cobar.

The major expansion and upgrade of hospital services was required to continue to provide the highest quality care to these communities and deliver essential health services closer to home.

The NSW Government invested $150 million to redevelop the Dubbo Hospital - Stages 3 and 4.

The project includes Emergency Department and short stay unit, Medical imaging unit, Surgical inpatient unit, A critical care floor that will include a coronary care/stroke unit, Intensive Care Unit and cardiac catheter laboratory, Relocation of the renal dialysis unit, Ambulatory care unit, Front of house entry and drop off zone and additional parking on site.
